There’s a 1 in 20 chance of identity theft.

The historic number of data breaches and the identity crimes that follow means we’re all vulnerable to cybercriminals and fraudsters. Now is the time to understand how to fight back.

When identity theft happens to you, your employees, your customers or anyone you care about, it has a real impact both at work and at home.

Identity crime consequences include:

- 28% of victims have to borrow money from family or friends.
- 83% of victims were unable to rent an apartment or find housing.
- 33% of victims did not have enough money to buy food or pay for utilities.
- 54% of victims felt violated due to misuse of their identity.
- 67% of victims could not pay their bills.
